Editorial

At this time of year for the past 12 years, I have written about establishing a special day, annually, for the purpose of remembering those who, in some way, have helped us but whom we never thanked. It could be because we were too young to realize how much their help meant or we were simply too preoccupied at the time. I suggested that we make Nov. 2 Appreciation Day.

I chose this day because it is between the Canadian and American Thanksgiving Days. This year they fell on Oct. 12 (second Monday of the month) and Nov. 26 (fourth Thursday) respectively.

Wouldn't it be nice if there were a time set aside once a year to tell someone what a difference they made in our lives? What they did was valuable to us even if they were simply doing the job they were paid to do.

This, of course, could and should be done every day, but sometimes it helps to have a specific time when others are also doing this. Advice columnist Ann Landers, of blessed memory, proclaimed April 2 as Reconciliation Day. This day is for people who had been close but had a falling out and stopped communicating. It is a time for them to contact each other and rekindle their relationship.

This year I was not thinking about Appreciation Day until Oct. 17 when I received the following email:

I was looking up teachers from when I went to Northview Junior High School (now Middle School) in the late 1970s and found your article on Martha Gelb. I was pleased to see that she was celebrating her 100th birthday last year and to read the story in your publication. See page 2 of the following link: [http://jewishpostopinion.com/wp-content/uploads/2014/05/IN\_5-14-14FFF.pdf]

After reading the article, I felt that I wanted to share with you the impact that she, as a teacher, had on me in her science class. Mrs. Gelb helped instill in me the importance of rigorous scientific methodology. Her unswerving drive to insure that our experiments were conducted with the most precision possible and that our write-ups were top-notch have stuck with me to this day.

Her primary objective seemed to be to make us understand that completing the work was not the goal, but doing the work with integrity was of the utmost importance. If the class results varied too much on an experiment, we would discuss why this might happen, how we might control variables better, and then perform the experiment again.

Chanukah Joy
By Suzy Friedman

Suzy Friedman creates distinctive, special occasion art using Judaic themes. Each piece reflects Suzy's love of Judaism and its traditions.

S. Friedman

For many years Suzy has been using her artistic talent in media as diverse as mosaics, hand-dyed and painted silk atarot for talitot and torah covers, cards and invitations, and hand-painted ketubot. Lately she has been working in pastels and oils focusing on landscape and still life. She also creates three-dimensional Giclee-process ketubot and other Judaic themed prints.

Suzy's commissioned artwork can be found in synagogues and homes throughout the country. She has taught art to secular and religious school students. She now teaches mosaic classes in her home studio.

Her training includes a BA in Fine Art from Indiana University and a Masters in Art Education from IUPUI at Herron.

This unswerving drive for careful experimentation without cutting corners has stuck with me for over 35 years as this simulacrum in the back of my mind: "Would Mrs. Gelb accept these results?" The mental act of running things that I produced through this "check" has helped me be an objective defender of finding the kernel of truth as much as I have been able. I thank Mrs. Gelb for passing along this scientific passion that I've described above to me.

I printed this letter and took it to the nursing home where Mrs. Gelb has been residing for the past several years. Even though I printed it in large, bold letters she still had trouble reading it so I read the letter to her. She was all smiles after that and I could tell it meant a great deal to her, but she was curious what this student does now for a living. I replied to his email and posed that question. He responded:

I've just left a position with Verizon where I was doing computer systems analyst work for the past 15 years in order to take a job with a Silicon Valley company called Hortonworks where I will continue to do troubleshooting and problem resolution work.

The troubleshooting is where I use most of the analytical skills that require data collection, investigation of that data and often a bunch of experimentation in order to come up with a solution.

It's not rocket science, but it still uses the scientific principles in order to resolve computer systems issues as quickly as possible.

Family Torah returned to Indianapolis

In our Sept. 24, 2015 edition we wrote about a special Torah that surfaced in Israel. Richard Markowitz who lives in Yishuv Tzufim in the Shomron sent us an email stating that just after the first Gulf War in 1991 his father-in-law brought him a Sefer Torah from a synagogue in Miami. The Torah was in need of repair. He arranged for a scribe to look into repairing it but lost track of it until 2 years ago, when he got it back and kept it in storage.

Mallah and Lora Mordoh, z'l, of Indianapolis had that Torah written in memory of their son Ensign Gilbert Mordoh who was killed at a naval base near San Francisco in 1944. Two surviving sons are Al and Leon. Their fourth son, Sol, died at age 87 in 2013.

The Torah was for a congregation in Miami Beach on 8th and Collins St., where the Mordoh parents lived for some years before returning to Indianapolis. When the Jews moved away from that neighborhood, the congregation folded and the Torah was donated or sold.

Al Mordoh (right) holds the returned Torah with his son Mel.

On Nov. 29 this Torah was returned to Indianapolis. Several different connections helped to get it here. It was brought from Israel to Chicago by Anne (Weinstein) Weiss, daughter of William (Bill, z'l) and Bebe Weinstein. The Torah was brought from Chicago to Indianapolis by the nephew of Anne's brother-in-law, David Bloom, who was visiting there for Thanksgiving.

Anne and her husband Steve Weiss have renters in Israel who are friends of Richard Markowitz. The renters heard from Richard that he was looking for someone going to Indianapolis who could bring a Torah here. The renters knew Anne was originally from Indianapolis so they asked her and she agreed to bring it on her next visit.

Anne had grown up on Sunset Lane, down the street from the Mordoh's, and she knew the family well. Bebe's mother, Mollie Yoshia, had lived across the street from the synagogue in Miami Beach and attended services there regularly. It was a special place for her.

Anne's husband, Steve, is from Chicago but the reason for their visit there now is that he has a serious health challenge and one of the most successful doctors treating it practices there.

Richard has asked, "Please pray for the complete recovery of Steve Weiss, Shimshon ben Sarah Rivka. Let the entire 'zchoot' of (see Torah, page IN 10)

This gentleman was fortunate that with modern computer technology and Mrs. Gelb's longevity, he was able to reach her while she was still able to receive his "thank you".

Besides teachers, these helpers could be counselors, firemen, clergy, nurses, librarians and so forth, or simply relatives and friends. They put forth a great deal of effort, often wondering if they are making any difference at all.

It does not matter how long ago this help was received. If many years have passed that shows the helper that whatever they did made a lasting impression. So don't wait, thank someone today.

We wish our dear readers a Chanukah filled with light!

Chassidic Rabbi

BY RABBI BENZION COHEN

Miracles

We are now approaching Chanukah. On Chanukah we light the Menorah every evening for eight days. Why? After the Maccabees drove out the Greek invaders, they rededicated the Holy temple in Jerusalem. They searched for oil to light the Menorah. The Greeks had defiled all of the oil. Finally they found one small jug of pure oil, which was only enough for one day. Hashem made a miracle, and the oil burned for 8 days. Therefore we celebrate Chanukah and light the Menorah eight days.

Today we also see many miracles. I want to share with you a story about some amazing miracles. As I wrote recently, this is a special year, a year of Assembly. Once in seven years we are commanded to gather together in the Holy Temple in Jerusalem, to strengthen our fear of Heaven. As of yet we don't have our Holy Temple. We pray that Hashem will rebuild it. But we still make similar gatherings this year, to strengthen our observance of Torah.

Tzvi Azarya is a Lubavitcher who lives in Rechovot, Israel. In the year 1988, also a year of Assembly, he wanted to go to Brooklyn, to the Lubavitcher Rebbe. At that time he was working for the Israeli Army, so he had to get permission to leave from his commanding officer. The officer refused, saying "You only got married a year ago, and it will cost you a small fortune to travel to America with your wife and new baby".

The next day he decided to offer his officer a deal. The officer had been married already many years, but had not been blessed with children. He told the officer that if he would let him go to the Rebbe, he would promise to ask the Rebbe to bless him with children. The officer thought for a few seconds, then said "Okay, but remember, a promise is a promise!"

The following Sunday Tzvi was already in Brooklyn, waiting in line to get a blessing from the Rebbe. Every Sunday the Rebbe would bless thousands of people and give each one at least one dollar. These dollars were meant for charity. Each person was responsible to give at least one dollar to the charity of their choice. Most of those who received these dollars from the Rebbe would keep them, and give other dollars to charity.

The Rebbe blessed him and gave him a dollar. He asked for a blessing for children for his officer and his wife. The Rebbe gave him two more dollars, and said "This is for the officer, and this is for his wife."

The Rebbe then took two dollars and folded them together. Then he took another two dollars and folded them together. Then he took three dollars and folded them together. He gave the seven dollars to Tzvi, saying "This is for the children."

Tzvi returned home. He told his officer about the Rebbe's blessings and gave him the dollars. His officer was surprised. He told his officer: "You are going to see miracles and wonders!" His officer asked, "Seven children?" Tzvi answered, "Well, you got seven dollars!"

A few weeks later his officer called him to come to his office and told him that he has good news. Eight months later he met his officer, who hugged him and kissed him. He said, "Baruch Hashem! My wife just gave birth to twin girls!" At this point his officer decided to start praying every day and to put on tefillin.

A year and a half later they were blessed again with twin girls. Then they were blessed with triplets, three boys, Baruch Hashem.

Just-in-time Chanukah recipes

The Seasonal Jewish Kitchen. By Amelia Saltzman. Sterling Epicure. $29.95 hardcover. August 2015.

Here are two of her recipes for Chanukah. Saltzman calls these latkes "thin, crisp and pan fried."

Best Potato Latkes

(24 or 6 servings) Pareve or Dairy

2 pounds peeled starchy potatoes
 1 small onion
 2 heaping Tbsp. unbleached all purpose flour or potato starch
 1 tsp. kosher salt
 1/2 tsp. baking powder
 freshly ground black pepper
 2 lightly beaten eggs
 mild oil (grapeseed, sunflower or avocado)
 sea salt

Using the large holes of a box grater or a food processor fitted with the grating disk, grate the potatoes (about 5 cups). Grate the onion on the large holes of the box grater or fit the processor with the metal S blade and grate. In a large bowl, stir together potatoes, onion, flour salt, baking powder and a few grinds of pepper. Stir in eggs. Line 2 or 3 sheet pans with paper towels. Place the prepared pans, the latke batter, a large spoon and a spatula near the stove.

Heat 1 or 2 large skillets over medium heat. Gentle film the skillets with not more than 1/4-inch oil. When the oil is shimmering and a tiny bit of batter sizzles on contact, start spooning in the latke batter, making sure to add both solids and liquids. Using the back of the spoon, flatten each spoonful into a circle 3 to 4 inches in diameter. Do not crowd the latkes in the pan. You will get 4 or 5 latkes in a 12-inch skillet.

Cook the latkes, flipping them once until golden on both sides, 5 to 6 minutes total. Transfer the latkes to the prepared baking sheet. Cook the remaining batter in the same way, stirring the batter before adding more to the pan and adding oil as needed at the edge of the pan. Arrange the latkes on a warmed platter, sprinkle with sea salt, and serve with applesauce or sour cream. A good accompaniment is this fruit dish below.

The teens in our community are amazing! On Nov. 19, two hundred teens gathered for BBYO's Hunger Games CAN-TRIBUTE event and collected enough food to stock the Jewish Family Services pantry shelves for over two weeks! So many families benefitted from their generosity during the week of Thanksgiving. Thank you to BBYO Regional Director Jeff Linkon, and everyone involved in making the event such a huge success!

Roasted Smashed Apples and Pears

(3 cups) Pareve/Vegan

3 pounds medium-size apples
 and pears

a few sprigs thyme (optional)

2 to 3 Tbsp. water, fresh lemon juice,
 Calvados, pear brandy, or eau-de-vie,
 hard cider or dessert wine

ground cinnamon or nutmeg (optional)

Preheat the oven to 375°F. Halve the pears and apples through the stem end, then core them, and place the halves, cut side down, on one or more sheet pans, spacing them 1 to 2 inches apart. If using the thyme, scatter it among the pears and apples. Cover the pan tightly with aluminum foil. Bake the apples and pears until tender when pierced with a knife tip (30 to 40 minutes).

When they are cool enough to handle, slip the fruits from the skins and back into the pan, scraping any pulp from the skins. Discard skins and thyme stems. Mash the apples and pears with a fork, stirring in enough water or other liquid to help scrape up any brown bits from the pan bottom and lighten the texture of the fruit. Scrape the mixture into a bowl and serve warm at room temperature or cover and refrigerate up to a day ahead and serve cold. This can also be made with pears only or apples only.

Conference of Children of the DP camps

By ROSE KLEINER

For children who survived the Holocaust, and came to live in the DP (Displaced Persons) camps after World War II, these camps represented their first exposure to a, more or less, normal life in peacetime.

For the first time they were able to attend schools, and to make friends. But stays in the DP camps were different for each family, or better still, unit because there were very few whole families. Most households, or units, consisted of one parent and one, or more children, if they were lucky to have survived.

Because of this tragic fragmentation of families, the friendships formed by the child survivors were especially important to them. Yet those friendships were always disrupted as children, as their – one or both – parents attained papers to emigrate to Israel, or some other country to start a new life.

To this day, it is not unusual to speak to child survivors who will nostalgically recall childhood friends whom they have never been able to find again, after immigration from the DP camps. This is why the forthcoming conference is of such great interest to children who lived in any of the DP camps.

This first ever conference of children who arrived in the DP camps after World War II, as survivors, and of children who were born in those DP camps will be held in Israel in December.

The largest Jewish birth rate in the world after World War II was in the DP camps. These camps were set up in Western Europe for the survivors of the Holocaust. The survivors were housed there prior to immigrating to other countries to start a new life.

The Conference of Those Who Were Children in DP Camps Including Babies Born There will be held on Mon., Dec. 21, 9:30a.m. to 6:00p.m., at Tel Aviv University, Smolarz Auditorium, Ramat Aviv.

The conference is reaching out to include those children who lived in DP camps in Germany, Austria, Italy and Cypress. The conference has scheduled lectures, seminars and discussions on such diverse topics as:

- The relentless persistence of the Holocaust survivors, the parents, to rebuild their own individual lives, and to come together as a Jewish people.

- The largest baby boom in history that occurred in the DP camps, became a symbol of the revival of the Jewish people.

- The daily life in the DP camps. Initiated by the survivors themselves with the support of representatives from

The trio, called Kativar from Bloomington, Ind., gave a concert of traditional Sephardic songs. Kativar is Ladino for "captivate." The trio used a guitar, hurdy gurdy, viola, oud, djoze, dumbek, riqq, naqqarat and bendir to create a unique sound.

this incredible story, of returning a lost item to its family, be granted to him, and in its merit let H' grant him a refuah shlema and return to him his perfect health. And please have a 'mi sh-berach' said for Shimshon, daily, and on Shabbat in your synagogue. *

Eretz Yisrael and international Jewish organizations, the DP camps made available vocational training programs, Hebrew schools, religious education, and Yiddish theatre, along with other opportunities for the young to reintegrate into peacetime lives.

- Survivors played an important role in the struggle for immigration to Palestine, before the founding of the State of Israel.

Participants in the conference are encouraged to bring along any photographs, documents, or other items of interest, which they have kept from their time in the DP camps.

There will be round tables, designated by the respective DP camps, giving participants a chance to find, and to reconnect with, old friends. *

Cirque Dreams Holidaze is coming to Indianapolis

Created by Neil Goldberg

How does a young Orthodox Jewish boy grow up to become the producer of one of today's most popular Holiday Stage Spectacles...Cirque Dreams Holidaze?

It began with Broadway for Cirque Dreams creator and director Neil Goldberg when his mother took him to see The Miracle Worker at age six. The experience ignited his early interest in the arts as he began molding cardboard shoe boxes into stage sets. As his interests broadened, he added to his repertoire dance, piano, accordion, trumpet lessons and more. As a teenager, most of his creative involvement was related to shul youth groups and Jewish community centers enriching his inspiration and aspiration for the arts.

On his way home from yeshiva as a young boy, Neil Goldberg began collecting ornaments and tinsel from neighbors discarded Christmas trees after the holiday season. His intrigue was the color, sparkle and imagination of these trinkets.

Today, Neil Goldberg, founder and creator of Cirque Dreams Holidaze has an over 10,000 piece ornament collection from his journeys throughout the world. "My parents were not fond of this hobby at first, but when I found ornaments of dreidels, menorahs, Jewish stars and other Judaica items, they too realized that I was attracted to a unique art form that was not necessarily symbolic of religion but more so appealed to my imagination" says Goldberg. "I would sit for hours on end staring at the detail, whimsy and construction of each ornament wondering its origin, background and meaning."

In 2008, after the success of Cirque Dreams Jungle Fantasy on Broadway, Neil Goldberg decided to bring his ornament collection to life by reimagining ornaments as costume characters inspired from his collection.

Cirque Dreams Holidaze is a show that celebrates the holiday season and piques the imagination of all ages. The production is not focused on any one holiday. "No matter what religion, belief, or tradition people celebrate, most think of November and December as the most wonderful time of the year" as it encompasses an array of many holiday's and celebratory occasions."

Set in a landscape of gift boxes, toy soldiers, snowmen, candy canes and other celebratory and winter imagery, the show is produced in the spirit of everything holidays.

"Whether it's Thanksgiving, Chanukah, Christmas or New Years, there's a common thread to every holiday of family, tradition and appreciation," says Goldberg.

Over 300 costumes come to life in songs like Winter Wonderland and are worn by 30 performers who fly through the air, bounce around the stage and perform feats of disbelief, transforming Goldberg's ornament collection and theatrical expertise into a stage spectacle for audiences everywhere.

This year, Cirque Dreams Holidaze is appearing in Indianapolis for the first time – at the Old National Centre, Dec. 15–20. Now in its 7th touring season, it has been seen by over 10 million people throughout the country.

"I'm proud of my Jewish heritage," says Goldberg, who travels the world directing (see Cirque, page IN 15)

Marjorie Ann Holmes, 92, the mother of Mayor Stephen Goldsmith, died Nov. 1 in Indianapolis of pneumonia. A lifelong tournament bridge player, she guided her son's early career with advice from her partners at the Indianapolis Bridge Center. While playing cards with the late Circuit Judge John L. Niblack, she prodded him to tell her where her son, later Marion County Prosecutor, should attend law school. "If you would just shut up and play cards, I promise to give you advice later," retorted Niblack, a champion player and a frequent bridge partner. Holmes holds her bronze life master in bridge.

She prided herself on her liberal politics, often recollecting the moment her father introduced her to Franklin Delano Roosevelt on a whistle stop tour of Iowa. Those liberal roots and a willingness to hold her own in a political conversation produced a tolerance that she imparted to her children.

She was born in Sioux City, Iowa, in 1923, to Lewis and Esther Weinberg, owners of a retail department store. She graduated from Monticello Jr. College, and attended the University of Oklahoma, where she majored in piano, and speech and debate, but left school in 1941, after Pearl Harbor was attacked. She returned to Sioux City, where she met her first husband, Joseph F. Goldsmith of Indianapolis, at a USO dance. During their marriage, she held leadership positions with the Indianapolis League of Women Voters, Parent Teachers Association, Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, and led discussion groups for Great Books, Inc.

While raising her children in Indianapolis, her friendships with a group of her neighbors, who called themselves the Willy-nillies, were all important to her. For close to 20 years this group of women met every Thursday to discuss childrearing and public affairs, Betty Witchger, Ellen Morse, Martha Burns, and Deedy Coble, who was the volunteer president of the Indianapolis Schools Board.

After divorcing Joseph Goldsmith, in 1973, she moved to Palo Alto, Calif., and married the late Oscar C. Holmes, Jr., a civil engineer from Stanford University, who built roads, bridges and dams throughout the West. She returned to live in Indianapolis in 2001 where her life was marked by bridge accomplishments and her warm friendships.

Burial was in Arlington National Cemetery with Holmes, a Marine Corps veteran of World War II and a Purple Heart recipient. Arrangements by Aaron-Ruben-Nelson Mortuary. In addition to her son, survivors include a daughter, Dr. Julie A. Goldsmith of Indianapolis, stepson Richard Holmes of Houston, grandchildren, Reid, Elizabeth, and Olivia Goldsmith.

Memoriam tributes may be made to IU School of Medicine, Department of Neurology, Research, 355 W. 16th Street, Indianapolis, IN 46202.

Founded by IHC's Cantor Janice Roger, the Klezmorim will be performing a free concert at IHC on April 10 to celebrate their 18th anniversary.
